SCENTS OF SUMMER

Lazy, hazy, crazy – it's that time of year again. By Jennifer George

DOLCE & GABBANA

Velvet Cypress,
£165 for 50ml

(exclusive to Harrods)

They say 'An elegant, fresh, woody, citrus fragrance.'

We say If you bottled the Mediterranean – the cypress conifers, lemon groves and herb gardens – it would smell like this: rich, green and rather expensive.

PENHALIGON'S

Agarbathi Eau de Parfum,
£164 for 50ml

They say 'The sacred resin Oliban blends into one with the omnipresent incense and a milky-skin-deep accord. The jasmine blends with the incense and lifts with light the sombre vetiver.'

We say What they said.

ATELIER COLOGNE

Clémentine California Cologne Absolue,
£90 for 100ml

They say 'A sunny composition inspired by Californian clementines.'

We say Sharp with citrus, spicy with star anise, herby with basil. Will make you smell like a negroni – which is no bad thing.

TOM FORD

Sole di Positano Eau de Parfum,
£155 for 50 ml

They say 'Captures the dream-like beauty of the Italian coast.'

We say Full of Italian bergamot and exotic ylang-ylang – in other words, sexier than Monica Bellucci downing Aperol in a bikini.

ACQUA DI PARMA

Blu Mediterraneo Cedro di Taormina,
£87 for 150ml

They say 'The sunny yet intense essence of citron, combined with the strength of volcanic rock.'

We say Intense, yes (lemony and earthy and peppery in spades), but this Sicilian-inspired scent settles on the skin nicely. Also works well on boys.

L'ARTISAN PARFUMEUR

Histoire d'Orangers Eau de Parfum,
£118 for 100ml

They say 'A memory of perfumer Marie Salamagne, of travelling in the valley of Souss, Morocco.'

We say Recalls the clean scent of neroli, not of haggling over a shisha pipe in the souk.

MICHAEL KORS

Turquoise Eau de Parfum,
£66 for 50ml

They say 'Evocative of the sea air.'

We say Flowery yet tangy, crammed with sea salt harvested off the French coast. Spray it in your hair and pretend you're on the Riviera.

SANA JARDIN

Savage Jasmine, £180 for 100 ml

They say 'Induces feelings of wellbeing, optimism and sensual desire.'

We say It's not that this hot, heady fragrance will definitely get you laid, but...
